MEET THIS MONTH'S CHANGE-MAKERS

Kerrin Black

When her close friend Eddy Rust (above right) was battling cancer, O reader Kerrin Black saw him crippled by twin burdens – the disease and the staggering cost of treatment. This inspired her to set up the Faces of Hope Foundation, to offer financial assistance to those facing life-threatening illnesses, specifically cancer, without the support of a medical aid. "We started getting calls from families in similar situations, and I realised there was a real need." Actor David James (above left) is involved with fundraising for the foundation. Kerrin will be putting her prize money towards treatments for more people. She is also establishing a South African lymphoma committee to raise awareness around blood cancers.

HAVE YOU STARTED A CHANGE REACTION ?

Do you know someone who has made a difference in your community? It could be a friend, a colleague or even yourself. Tell us, in no more than 250 words, who you are nominating and why.*

Each month, until September 2010, O, The Oprah Magazine and Sasol will identify individuals who are making a difference to our lives, our children, our country and our planet. The monthly O winners will each be rewarded with R10,000 and their cause will be featured in O. These winners will go into a draw, where one person and their partner will get the chance to attend a live recording of The Oprah Winfrey Show in Chicago! O and Sasol hope to help create a South Africa where acts of kindness are the order of the day.

HOW TO ENTER:

Post to: Have You Started a Change Reaction? O, The Oprah Magazine, P.O. Box 3647, Cape Town, 8000.

Pakama Gcabo

Pakama Gcabo nominated the Fundani Nathi ("learn with us") Tutoring Project (FNTP), a group of nine Sasol Technology R & D employees who started a tutoring initiative back in 2005 in response to poor matric results. The aim of the project, at inception, was to tutor Grade 12 learners in schools in Zamdela, Sasolburg, in Mathematics and Science. The project has since grown to 35 tutors, who help learners from three schools in the area. Apart from maths and science, sessions include life skills, career guidance and informal mentoring. The tutors, all qualified engineers and scientists from various business units within Sasol, tutor on a voluntary basis.
